Report Summary: 2007 WIFA Residential Rate Survey

Report Summary

INTRODUCTION

The Water Infrastructure Finance Authority of Arizona is pleased to provide this 2007 Residential Rate Survey for drinking water and wastewater systems. This survey provides data on the unit rates and total monthly charges assessed by utilities throughout Arizona for water consumed and/or wastewater generated. The survey is based on current year (2007) data; where 2007 information was not available, the most recent prior year data was utilized.

This survey is limited only to the monthly base and usage charges assessed by Arizona utilities. No data was collected on other charges involved with the provision of water and wastewater service, such as connection charges, tap fees, impact fees, stand-by charges, late charges, etc. Nor is there any inclusion of sales taxes, sanitation charges or other fees that are sometimes included on a residential monthly water bill.

ARIZONA RATE STRUCTURES

There are many different rate structures for water and wastewater systems currently in effect in Arizona. The type of rate structure employed by a utility can have a significant impact on a customer's usage patterns and monthly bill for service. As noted in the American Water Works Association Manual M-1, an authoritative source for ratemaking throughout the United States, the most common type of rate structures include, but are not limited to:

Uniform Volume Charges – a single charge per unit of volume for all water used.

Declining Block Rates – a schedule of rates applicable to blocks of increasing usage in which the usage in each succeeding block is charged at a lower unit rate than in the previous blocks. Generally, each successive block rate is applicable to a greater volume of water delivery than the preceding block.

Inverted Block Rates – a schedule of rates applicable to blocks of increasing usage in which the usage in each succeeding block is charged at a higher unit rate than in the previous blocks. Generally, each successive block rate may be applicable to a greater volume of water delivery than the preceding block. The intent of an inverted block rate is to encourage conservation by providing a financial disincentive to consumers for increasing amounts of water use.

Lifeline Rates – rates applicable to usage up to a specified level that are below the cost of service for the purpose of meeting the social goal of providing minimum annual water requirements to qualified customers at a below-cost price.

Off-Peak Rates – rates charged for usage during designated off-peak periods.

Seasonal Rates – rates based on the cost of service variations with respect to system seasonal requirements. For example, higher rates may be charged during the summer months when a system peak occurs, which requires facilities not needed to meet lower winter loads.

Fixed Monthly Charges – usually applicable to wastewater systems; involves the assessment of a single fixed charge for service regardless of the amount of water consumed or wastewater discharged.

The type of rate structure placed into effect by a utility will have significant economic, social and policy implications for the affected community. For example, a utility that charges for service based on Inverted Block rates will likely have a different total charge for a given level of usage than a utility that charges based on uniform rates. In addition to recovering sufficient revenues to fund operations, specific rate designs can be used to enforce policy goals, such as conservation (Inverted Block rates), system efficiency (Off-Peak rates) or assistance to needy or low-income ratepayers (Lifeline rates).

Furthermore, there are other factors within the type of rate structure implemented that may also have an impact on a customer's monthly charges. For example, some utilities choose to implement a high monthly minimum charge and a lower monthly volume rate, while other utilities do the opposite. Certain utilities provide a large allowance of gallons within the monthly minimum charge, others provide a limited allowance, and still others provide no allowance of gallons at all. On the wastewater side, some utilities charge a volumetric rate based on a "winter average", which sets a maximum usage level at the average of the customer's water usage during the winter months. Other utilities base wastewater charges on a straight percentage of total water volume, while still others use a fixed monthly charge.

Many variables effect the determination of a utility's cost of service and the ultimate rate it implements for its consumers. These variables can result in significantly different total costs and rates between even neighboring utilities. These variables include, but are not limited to:

- Water Source – is the utility using ground water, surface water or a combination? If ground water is used, what is the depth from which the water must be extracted? How extensive a treatment process is required to convert the raw water into potable water for end users?

- Transportation/Distribution – are the utility's customers primarily rural or urban based? Is the customer base densely populated or more widely disbursed?
- System Age – is the system older, requiring more repair/replacement expenditures, or newer, installed to service the state's rapid growth of the past decade?
- Economies of Scale – is the system larger and better positioned to take advantage of the economies of scale inherent in water and wastewater systems?
- Grant Funding – is the utility eligible for state and federal grants to offset some of the costs of system repair and expansion?
- Use of Tax Bonds – is the system able to, and does it choose to, finance a percentage of capital expenditures through the issuance of tax bonds (financed through property or sales taxes) as opposed to revenue bonds (financed through user rates)?
- General Fund Subsidies – (particularly applicable to municipal utilities) are the utility's rates being used to offset a portion of the General Fund through contributions? To the contrary, are the utility's rates not covering its cost of service, thus requiring a subsidy from the General Fund in order to meet all expenses?
- Return on Investment – (particularly applicable to private sector utilities) what is the utility's allowed rate of return on investment?

Because of these fundamental cost differences between utilities, a high rate or a low rate does not necessarily reflect the efficiency of the utility's operation. Therefore, the results of this survey alone should not be used to judge the effectiveness of the operation of any specific utility. Instead, this survey will be useful by providing general comparisons between systems and communities.

SURVEY METHODOLOGY AND KEY FINDINGS

Survey input was obtained for all Arizona Municipal League cities providing water and/or wastewater services, all privately owned water and wastewater providers currently offering service with tariffs and annual reports filed with the Arizona Corporation Commission, and all responding districts. Rates for those providers known to not be currently offering service were not included so the rates and statistics shown would present the most accurate picture possible of rates currently being paid by Arizona residents. A residential household drinking water consumption level of 7,500 gallons per month was included as the representative usage amount for this survey and is also the usage level used in comparison to the drinking water results from the 2005 and 2006 studies in Exhibit A. This number was derived by utilizing 2.5 persons per household, 100 gallons per capita per day, and 30 days per month. Rates for a lower consumption level of 5,000 gallons per month, and a higher consumption level of 10,000 gallons per month were computed as well.

Residential wastewater rates were calculated in a similar manner using an assumed monthly sewer flow of 5,000 gallons per household, which represents the same amount as used in prior studies, and a comparison of the 2005 and 2006 survey results is shown in Exhibit H. As the predominant method of billing for wastewater services continues to be a flat monthly rate regardless of consumption, only the charges for 5,000 gallons were computed in this study. Section 5 does include columns showing tier level charges for those wastewater providers not utilizing a flat rate methodology.

Due to the variety of the various rate-structuring methods currently employed by water providers across the state, a tabulation of methods employed by provider type has again been included as Exhibit D. Also, the method employed by each water provider has been listed in Section 2 in this year's study. As the population of the state increases, drought conditions continue, and more strict federal standards for water quality take effect requiring additional investment in upgraded infrastructure and compliance measures, water and wastewater providers are evaluating and changing their rates on a more frequent basis than seen in the past. The average monthly charge for 7,500 gallons of drinking water has increased by 5.45% since the 2006 survey as shown in Exhibit A, and the average monthly charge for 5,000 gallons of wastewater has increased by 7.89% since the 2006 survey as shown in Exhibit H. Many more municipal providers in particular are now adjusting their rates annually in order to keep pace with rising costs.

This survey was conducted in the fourth quarter of 2007. Rate changes may have been implemented since then that are not reflected in this survey, as final approvals for pending rates may not have been obtained prior to submission of the current rates for the study. Survey data on water sold, system revenues, etc. are for 2006 or the most recent fiscal year available. Some utilities did not complete every question and thus the "NR" or "Not Reported" entry was used and in many cases annual report data from the Arizona Corporation Commission was used for publicly owned utilities. Utilities that did not file annual reports for the past two years were considered non-operational and their rates were not included in this study as they would be outdated and irrelevant. We appreciate the cooperation and responsiveness of everyone who provided information for this survey.

A total of 423 database entries for drinking water systems in Arizona were collected during this survey. (Some utilities have more than one entry due to seasonal rates or multiple geographic areas.) According to the data collected for these systems, the monthly water charges for 7,500 gallons of water consumption ranged from $4.71 for the City of Phoenix summer rates, to $201.78 for the Highland Pines Drinking Water Improvement District. The average monthly charge for 7,500 gallons of water service was $34.02, up 5.45% from the 2006 survey, and the median monthly charge was $30.98, an increase of 3.77% over the 2006 survey rates.

A total of 130 database entries for wastewater systems in Arizona were collected during this survey. According to the data collected for these systems, the monthly wastewater charges for 5,000 gallons of wastewater ranged from a low of $2.00 for the City of Tolleson to a high of $80.00 for the Kings Ranch Unit II Treatment Plant. The average monthly charge for 5,000 gallons of wastewater service was up 7.89% from the 2006 survey to $24.27, and the median monthly charge was $21.26, an increase of 6.17% from the 2006 survey data.

This Report Summary overview section includes a number of tables and graphs that provide a statistical summary for both the Drinking Water Survey (Exhibits A-G) and the Wastewater Survey (Exhibit H & I).

Both median and average data are provided by:

- Statewide Total
- Ownership Type
- Annual Revenues
- Number of Connections
- County Served

Data is also presented by Ownership Type for the various rate structuring methods used for Drinking Water Systems.

HOW TO USE THE SURVEY

This 2007 Residential Rate Survey report and database is organized into five sections:

- Section 1: Report Summary
- Section 2: Drinking Water Systems Summary Data
- Section 3: Drinking Water Systems Monthly Charges for 5,000 Gallons, 7,500 Gallons and 10,000 Gallons
- Section 4: Wastewater Systems Summary Data
- Section 5: Wastewater Systems Monthly Charges for 5,000 Gallons

An explanation of the Drinking Water Systems sections is provided in Exhibit J.

An explanation of the Wastewater Systems sections is provided in Exhibit K.
